

Re: [Evolution] How do you want printed emails to look like?

From: Patrick O'Callaghan <poc@usb.ve>

To: evolution-list@gnome.org

On Wed, 2011-10-26 at 20:30 +0200, Dan Vratil wrote:

☞> > Is it possible in the re-write to include selecting different ☞> formats - ☞> > preferably at print-time, but possibly in the setup? How about > > user-defined formats?
☞>
> What exactly do you mean by format? Something like templates? I don't > see much use in it. Let's make one perfect design instead of many > average designs.

Well that's not going to happen as everyone has different ideas about what's perfect. Also, as the old saying goes, "the perfect is the enemy of the good".

Philosophy aside, the best of the bunch IMHO is the Kmail example, but that's mainly as it's compact and saves paper. Get rid of the gray background in the header box and save some ink too. Make the set of headers to be printed configurable and you're good to go.

Oddly enough, the only example I couldn't open directly is Gmail, and this is using Chrome! Go figure.

poc

evolution-list mailing list

evolution-list@gnome.org

To change your list options or unsubscribe, visit ...

<http://mail.gnome.org/mailman/listinfo/evolution-list>